The Getaway — What's it all about?

We know some of you are thinking, "Why do they make all this fuss about the Getaway every year? I'm not interested in that stuff!" Maybe this is a good year to take another look.

The Getaway is for people who enjoy making or listening to music with a group of friends, or who would like to do so. It provides an intoxicating mix of music. It's for people who like rowdy music with rousing choruses, or quiet song swaps, or pure traditional music (whatever that means), or meaningful songs with social content; or who enjoy instrumental jams or old time music or unaccompanied singing; the list goes on and on. It's for people who never sing or play, but enjoy listening and being in a happy rural atmosphere for several days. It's for people who have always wanted to get up the nerve to perform in a supportive group and people who have been performing for years.

Since the Internet has made our little gathering internationally known and admired in the last few years, we have had an amazing new batch of good musicians and good friends to share in the music and fun. They have enhanced not only our musical variety, but the scope and enjoyment of the entire experience.

This year, friends both old and new are coming to the Getaway from California, New England, Canada, England, Israel, Belgium, Guam, Alaska and Iceland to be at the Getaway. (Did we forget anybody?) Oh yes – lots of great local folks who are great music-makers!

We'll have a strong sea chantey presence this year. Several members of the Shellback Chorus British Chantey Group are returning on their own because they liked the Getaway so well in 2003. Charley Noble and Barry Finn, both performers of maritime songs, will be coming from New England.

Of course we will have room for such Getaway favorites as gospel, blues, Irish and Celtic, old time music, singing along on rowdy chorus songs, a country and western jam and more. We'll also make use of the various wonderful talents who are coming to offer yodeling, learning to play a pennywhistle, a concert of Icelandic music, and much more.

Lovers of unaccompanied singing will have plenty opportunities to sing their own favorites and to hear ballads and songs from a notable collection of singers, including George Ward (traditional songs from upstate New York), Shellback Noreen Keene (ballads and songs from the British Isles), FSGW's own Kathy Westra (coming from her new home in Maine), and Merle Schlesinger Roesler, who was a Getaway "regular" before she moved to Massachusetts.

There is something overwhelmingly satisfying about the opportunities for singing, dancing and general camaraderie at the Getaway that connects people both musically and personally. Friendships are formed and renewed; shy singers are gently coaxed out into the light in a very safe, supportive environment; participants who are performers get invaluable feedback; there are musical surprises, and unexpected moments of sheer magic; and everyone seems to have a remarkably good time.

If you'd like to know more, feel free to call Carly Gewirz at 703-631-9655. She'd be happy to talk to you.

ERNIE HAWKINS

*Piedmont Blues GuitarSUNDAY, OCTOBER 2 • 7:30 PM

Pittsburgh-based acoustic guitar virtuoso Ernie Hawkins plays and sings blues, ragtime and gospel. Based upon the early 1900s east coast Piedmont and Texas steel-string fingerpicking styles, Ernie's performances have captivated audiences throughout the world. Ernie studied extensively with such masters as Rev. Gary Davis and worked with Son House, Mance Lipscomb and Fred McDowell. Ernie has performed and taught all over the US, Canada, Europe and Japan. Ernie has become one of the best living legacies to this rich and magnificent American musical heritage.

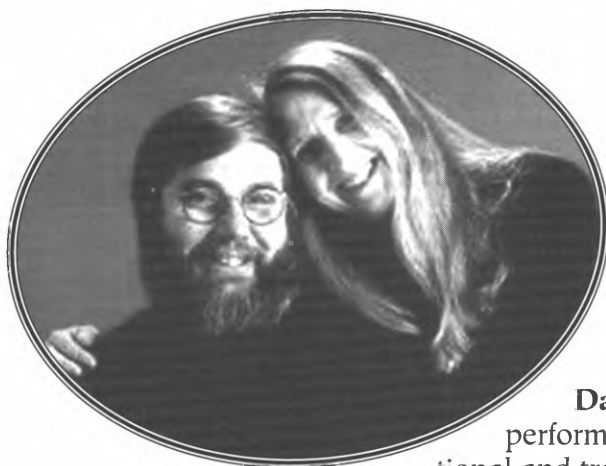

"Hawkins has emerged as the foremost master of Gary Davis guitar style."—Acoustic Guitar magazine
 "Hawkins is now an undeniable master in the Piedmont tradition and stands with Brownie McGee and John Jackson. He's so proficient that the only proponents of that style who are more technically adventurous are Blind Blake and the Rev. Gary Davis." —Blues Access

Ernie Hawkins will also be teaching a blues guitar workshop the Sunday afternoon before the concert at 1 pm, venue TBA. At the home of Kathie Mack in Takoma Park, MD, about three blocks from the Takoma station on Metro's Red Line. Suggested minimum donation: $12

FSGW House Concert

Laurel, MD

Dave Webber and Anni Fentiman

*One of Britain's best-loved duos
featuring traditional and traditional-style music*

Thursday, October 20 • 8 pm

Dave and Anni's enthusiasm sparkles in their powerful vocal performances which have developed from their involvement in traditional and traditional-style music for over 25 years. Their first love is a cappella singing, both solo and in harmony. They present a varied cross section of material from the delicate solo to the rousing chorus. Dave sings with a rich and powerful style. His love of this music is clear in his performance, from the gentle and plaintive traditional ballad to the stirring chorus song. Dave is also a song writer of note with many of his better known songs often assumed to be traditional. Dave has published a book of his songs, all of which are written in the traditional idiom. Anni's intuitive harmony adds color and depth to the duo while her solo performance is clear and sensitive. From the North East of England, Anni presents an unusual repertoire featuring dialect songs earning her a well deserved reputation in English traditional music circles.

"It's a magical experience whenever these two fine singers put their voices together. As for their harmonies, they are breathtaking." —Warwick Folk Festival, UK

Reservations strongly encouraged (this one may well sell out!) Call to make sure you will have a seat, which will only be held until 7:50. At the home of Dennis and Judy Cook in Laurel, MD (beyond the realm of public transit). Suggested minimum donation $12.

For a reservation, or for information about space availability, directions or parking, please contact the Cooks at 301-776-4314 or Cooks@ceimd.com.

Making Music While Making A Life • Vienna, VA

Saturday, October 1 • 10 am-12:45 pm

Most musicians have to manage their creative life with the demands of making money to eat (the day job), family responsibilities, and the major facets of music itself: writing, practicing, booking, performing, and recording. This workshop will help you dissect the different segments of the typical musician's life, and present tools to use for every aspect of managing a music career and a life. If your music career is part time and mostly a hobby, you are trying to make a transition to a more full time music career, or have already surrendered the day job—there will be useful tools for you! Taught by Michael Bowers, a nationally touring singer/songwriter and family therapist, and Siobhán Quinn, an internationally touring songwriter and vocalist with expertise in programmatic/artist-as-product business plans, booking, and developing program proposals for arts grant applications.
