Peggy Seeger’s family connections are well-known in folk and classical music circles. She is Pete Seeger’s half-sister and the late Mike Seeger’s sister, daughter of composer Ruth Crawford Seeger and ethnomusicologist Charles Seeger; partner to Ewan MacColl (who wrote The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face for her) and with whom she had three children. Her best-known compositions are Gonna Be an Engineer and The Ballad of Springhill (the latter frequently mistaken for a traditional song).

From 1959, Peggy Seeger and Ewan MacColl spearheaded the British folk revival, rediscovered old songs of the USA & UK, and gathered performers around them for political-musical documentary theatre, including the BBC Radio Ballad series. Their partnership ended with his death in 1989.

Peggy is known for singing both traditional songs and composed ones, mostly her own and many of a political nature. Peggy knows history. She hitchhiked Europe in the 1950s and was one of the first North American civilians to visit the People's Republic of China after the revolution. Peggy has dined with Woody Guthrie, Leadbelly, Mao Tse-Tung, Chou en Lai, and accompanied Paul Robeson on one of his British tours. The stories she can tell!

Peggy plays banjo, guitar, Appalachian dulcimer, autoharp, English concertina and piano. She is songwriter, author, music editor, activist, world traveler, has made 22 solo recordings and been part of more than 100 others, and is one of North America's finest female folksingers. She is currently recording another CD, and after this tour, is planning to re-settle in the UK. So catch her in concert while you can.

Washington Ethical Society Auditorium, 7750 16th St, NW, General admission $25; FSGW members $22, with a $3 discount for advance tickets. Youngsters under 22 and students $10. For further information, see www.fsgw.org or contact our concert chair Marty at 703-354-6460.

Planning for New Website is Underway

For many years Dennis Cook has maintained the FSGW website, providing an invaluable source of current and archival information. The Board of Directors of FSGW recognizes that it is important to preserve and build on this resource, to increase its interactivity and marketing potential, and to embrace the expanding range of web content. Therefore, at the February meeting the Board authorized a steering committee to begin the process of evaluating the current website and making recommendations regarding enhancements.

The Web Design Steering Committee invites all FSGW members to assist in this project in two ways:

- Please email your comments, concerns, and questions regarding the current website to the Steering Committee at webdesign@fsgw.org. Please put “Current Website” in the subject line.
- If you have skills in web site evaluation, design, development, documentation, maintenance, testing, accounting, etc., and you would like to volunteer to work on this project, please email the committee at webdesign@fsgw.org. Please put “Volunteer” in the subject line.

Or talk to any of us when you see us at a concert or dance. Tell us about your vision and tell us if you can help. We’re eager to hear from you.

Old-Fashioned Blues House Party
And Brief Membership Meeting

Saturday, March 13 * 8 pm

We’re planning a party – an old-fashioned blues house party – for our next program on March 13 at the Washington Ethical Society Auditorium. Andy Cohen will come from Memphis to lead the festivities. His cohort in country blues will be Eleanor Ellis and Walter “Wale” Liniger. They all fell in love with the old songs in the old styles, learned from the masters, and have been proclaiming it to the world ever since.

Andy Cohen grew up hearing recordings of Dixieland jazz and blues. Seeing Rev. Gary Davis perform took him in a new direction. Andy began to absorb the old music of the American South. Then he mastered playing it, in part while doing fieldwork with several blues elders for his anthropology degree. He became lead boy for blind bluesmen Jim Brewer, Rev. Dan Smith, Brother Daniel Womack, and briefly the very same Rev. Gary Davis. Other musical influences include Skip James, Bukka White and Brownie McGhee; and he’s worked and hung out with a “who’s who” of the blues. Andy has about a dozen recordings, mostly vocal and guitar on the Riverlark label, four solo, including one featuring music played on the Dolceola (an early 20th-century zither-type instrument played with a keyboard) apparently the only CD of such music in existence.

One of Andy Cohen’s recordings also includes Eleanor Ellis. Born near New Orleans, Eleanor dabbled in bluegrass before moving to the DC area. By then she was smitten by the blues, and played guitar and sang. She soon began backing up street singer Flora Molton and later worked with Piedmont legend Archie Edwards. She was a founding member of the DC Blues Society and the Archie Edwards Blues Heritage Foundation. Eleanor’s first solo recording was self-released; her latest is on the Patuxent label. In the 1980s, Eleanor produced a video documentary, Blues House Party, that included several of her Piedmont blues heroes; its premiere was sponsored by FSGW. She also writes on blues topics and has been a regular performer at the Washington Folk Festival.

Swiss-born Walter “Wale” Liniger fell in love with the blues via a Lightnin’ Hopkins recording. After several years teaching school, he moved to the US, and worked with the University of Mississippi’s Blues Archive. A Mississippi Arts Commission Folk Art grant allowed him to apprentice with Delta bluesman James “Son” Thomas, a relationship that lasted about seven years. He also backed Etta Baker on stage, with vocals, guitar and harmonica. Wale has been teaching blues courses at the University of South Carolina and the South Carolina Honors College, and he has taken the blues to concerts and workshops across Europe.

This is going to be a fun concert of fun music – country blues played by people who fell in love with it, play it really well, teach it, write about it. They will proclaim it to you on Saturday, March 13, 8 pm at the Washington Ethical Society, 7750 16th St., NW, Washington, DC 20012. General admission is $15, FREE to Folklore Society members.

This program will also include an official membership meeting, at the break, with a call for nominations for the 2010-2011 FSGW Board.

Steve Cormier
A Voice from the Great Southwest
Saturday, March 20 • 8 pm

Steve Cormier comes to us from New Mexico, where he has been a musician, a horse wrangler, a film actor, and a university professor. He sings of cowboys and colorful characters from Western American history and myth; of horses, of homes on the range, factory workers and farmers. He has learned both from research and from practical experience about the rancher's craft—how to loop a lariat, how to break a bronco, and how to use songs and stories to deal with the boredom that's the bulk of a cowboy's life.

Steve's songs and stories are mostly about real situations and real people, and provide insights into a way of life that is far removed from the reality experienced by most of us. His inspiration ranges from Woody Guthrie to Merle Haggard to Powder River Jack Lee.

Some of us met him at the FSGW Getaway last October, and wanted a chance to hear him in an entire evening's performance. Join us in the front parlor of Kathie Mack's Craftsman bungalow. It may be only three blocks from the Takoma Metro Station on the Red Line, but expect to spend most of the night with your mind transported to the American West.

Please call Kathie Mack at 301-270-5367, or email twizzles@starpower.net for info and directions. $15 suggested donation.

Quotes and Commentary by

Andy Wallace

Folklorist, Performer, FSGW Founding Member, a Past President, past Membership Chair and past Special Events Chair

FSGW founding member and Past President Andy Wallace has been involved with the traditional arts for over 45 years. As Associate Director of the National Council for the Traditional Arts (NCTA), he directed the National Folk Festival for 15 years, and many other national events, including the Lowell Folk Festival. He also did a five year stint at the New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival, and produced Festival Des Deux Mondes, a tour of Franco-American music and dance in northern New England. Most recently, Andy has worked with the American Folklife Center at the Library of Congress, and has served on several folk arts panels for the National Endowment of the Arts, including the National Heritage Awards panel.

As a performer Andy has been active since the 60s. He was an original singing crew member of the Hudson River Sloop Clearwater with Peter Seeger, Gordon Bok, Louis Killen, and Don McLean. He has recorded with Louis Killen, Helen Schneyer, Jonathan Eberhart, Bob Walser, and Jay Ungar among others.

He says:

"The Folklore Society has been an important part of my life for almost half a century. There, in the early years, I gained experience in producing events, which eventually became my career, and through the years, I have gained a host of great friends, not to mention my life partner.

I first met my wife Sondra at the Getaway in 1985. I was living in Otsego County, New York, where I was Asst. Executive Director of the county Community Action Agency. Sondra worked for the Dept. of Health and Human Services (still does), which, under Ronald Regan, was hell-bent on putting us out of existence. This made for some interesting conversation first time round, but by the time I came back a couple of years later, a spark was lit. We married in July of 1988, shortly after I returned to the Washington area, and we've been together ever since, going on 22 years.

Jonathan Eberhart, another founding member, was my dear friend and long-time singing partner. He had a razor-sharp wit. During a show one night, a young woman shouted out a request for a Bob Dylan song. Jonathan, no Dylan fan, launched into a three verse, improvised on the spot, piece of absolute nonsense he dubbed "Purple Rutabaga of the Mind". We were all amazed and delighted. One of Jonathan's favorite quips was "I feel more like I do now than when I first came in." Huh???

For the NCTA I traveled around the country organizing festivals for nine years. A large part of my job was cultivating the press. Newspapers are vital in getting the word out, but they are also always on the lookout for controversy, which was exasperating. My friend and colleague, Joe Wilson, was Director of the NCTA at the time, and a veritable font of folk wisdom. One day he warned me, "Never pick a fight with the man who owns the ink. You'll always lose." (He was right, now I know.)

"The late Charles Kuralt, host of the long-running, Emmy Award winning TV series, "On the Road", is one of my heroes. He said, "The everyday kindness of the back roads more than makes up for the acts of greed in the headlines." We crossed paths in the early '90s when he was hosting the National Heritage Fellowships, and I found him to be as interesting and down-to-earth- in person as he was on his show. Like Kuralt, I feel that I've been extraordinarily fortunate to make a living doing what I love—making music, working with great traditional artists, and having a hand in preserving the past.

Restoration is my other passion. I've restored five 18th and 19th century houses in Maryland and New York state, all of which I've lived in....another way of carrying the past into the present.

That's it for now. As my old friend, Pete (Seeger) would say, "Take it easy, but take it."

Nominating and Election Process for the 2010/2011 Board of Directors

Preparations for the election of next year’s FSGW board are underway. The Nomination committee has been appointed, consisting of: Charlie Baum, Jim Cole (chair), Robert Cox and Colleen Reed. They are in the process of working on a slate of candidates for the election in May.

Nominations for the FSGW board can be made at the membership meetings at the monthly program on March 13 or the Sunday night contra dance on March 21. Both these events are free to members. Additionally, nominations can be submitted, by March 30, directly to the Election Committee by petition of five current FSGW members. You can contact any of the committee members directly or email the Election Committee at elections@FSGW.org.

Election ballots will be mailed out by May 1st, but you have the option of casting your ballot electronically. This is an environmentally friendly way to cast your ballot, and more cost effective for FSGW.

Here’s how:
Go to the FSGW website, click on the Members Page link at the top; login using the last name and the ID number above your name shown on your newsletter label; click the MY MENU button; then click the MY NAME button and then the CONTACT button; in the Contact Information Box on the line labeled Electronic you have the option of checking a box to receive the Newsletter electronically and/or the election ballot electronically. Check the boxes you want and then click the CLICK TO SAVE CHANGES button. In order not to receive a paper ballot, this needs to be done prior to the mailing of the ballots the last week of April.

FSGW Board Meeting Highlights • (February 2, 2010)

• The board approved the formation of a steering committee to explore options for the new website
• We are looking into having one or more professional videos made of dance events, Glen Echo, and other FSGW programs, and are looking for candidates for the job.
• Nowell Sing We Clear cost FSGW $519.00
• There might be an Eberhart concert in May with Scottish singer Norman Kennedy.
• We will look into helping WES upgrade their sound system, as we did 7-8 years ago.

Thank You, Minifest Volunteers

FSGW wholeheartedly thanks the team of volunteers who spent hours planning the 2010 Midwinter Festival, sadly cancelled due to snow on February 6. April Blum, coordinating the event, and Charlie Baum, who planned the wonderful evening concert deserve a huge hand. And more applause is due programmers Linda Goodman, David Shewmaker, Charlie Pilzer, Tom Livengood, Lisa Null, and Scott Prouty, as well as Leonard Lu, who lined up volunteers. Also, a big thank you goes out to everyone who had agreed to perform and to all the logistics volunteers.

Despite their immense disappointment, we are happy to report the planning committee is back at work for next year’s event, and in fact reports that an all-day percussion track is in the works. The beat goes on!
